

Accurate Information Systems Launches New International Reporting Platform

Web-based platform provides resources for organizations struggling with the need to conduct international background screening

Holtsville, New York –Accurate Information Systems, Inc. (www.accinfosys.com) announced today the official launch of its new web-based international services platform. The AIS International Services platform is specifically developed and devoted to support the investigative screening needs of corporations employing individuals with international antecedents as well as the needs of background screening providers who need to secure these services on a wholesale basis for their screening clientele.

The new AIS platform streamlines the order entry and delivery process and provides the user a wealth of international informational resources including country specific source information, rights of access, data protection and privacy legislation. “This new platform represents a significant enhancement to the technologies that support our current service offerings” said AIS President Kevin McCrann. “We’re excited about the new launch and we’re confident our clients will realize the efficiencies this new system delivers”, added Russ Harvey, AIS’ Chief Operating Officer.
